

Kevin's Alibi

Kevin recalled leaving home in the afternoon and travelling to South Ruislip to collect a BMW he had purchased three days earlier on the 10th October 1994. The only person who could have supported Kevin's alibi was his partner Kim Purcell. Kevin did not call his partner to give evidence. He had his reasons for not doing so; Kevin and his partner had terminated their relationship as a result of marital difficulties which caused a complete deadlock between them, and although Miss Purcell was not called to give evidence in support of Kevin, in an interview with Solicitor Thomas Brownlow dated 11th September 1994 he states that Miss Purcell told him she did not believe Kevin had committed the murder.
